8: Any Other Business

No submissions had been received in advance.

- i. Kirk Davis commented that he was pleased that the Society's events were being recorded and asked how & when these would be made available to members. AR referred to the new website, which would include an Events section as a first priority, followed by a section for Wagner News & recordings of events – however, this would take some time.
- ii. Catherine Dobson commented that the Society's programme of events had 'kept members going' during a difficult time, and expressed her appreciation for this.
- iii. Kirk Davis asked what a typical number of attendees for Zoom events would be. AR quoted a number of 60-70 as an average, with a low of around 30. The most popular events (Grace Bumbry, Lise Davidsen..) had reached c. 120.
- iv. Patrick Shaw expressed his thanks the 'magnificent' programme of events the Society had put on during lockdown and asked about plans for live events at the Royal Over-Seas League. AR said that plans for future Awards events, and other live events, were still under consideration pending clarification about the ending of lockdown.
- v. Ray Godson commented that the Grace Bumbry interview had been the best event he had attended since joining the Society. He also asked about plans for a Singing Competition in 2021. AR confirmed that there would be no Singing Competition in 2021, but we hoped to stage one in 2022.
- vi. Susan Vincent also expressed her thanks for the events programme and requested that we maintain Zoom events in future for the benefit of those living outside London. AR confirmed that the Society intended to maintain a programme of Zoom events alongside live events, when these could be resumed.
- vii. Kirk Davis asked about the Society's policy regarding young members. AR replied that the Society offers free membership to students / under-30s and referred to the young lecturers competition and to the Bayreuth Bursary (including sponsorship of 2 places for students from Eastern Europe)

- viii. Susan Vincent mentioned that she had attended meetings of the Manchester Society and asked about plans to stage events with other Societies. AR commented that Zoom events made it very easy for members to join other Societies' events and that we regularly welcomed members from other Societies in the UK, Europe, North America and elsewhere (with some practical limitations imposed by different time zones).

There being no further business, the Chairman closed the meeting ended at 19:40 and thanked the members for attending.
